Are you feeling down this winter?

Simple ways to help with seasonal depression

Sometimes, people feel sad or tired when the seasons change, especially in winter. This is called seasonal depression or “the winter blues.” You might feel down, want to sleep a lot, or even gain weight. If you notice these feelings, try these easy tips:

- Move your body: Exercise can help you feel happier. You could try walking, dancing, swimming, or yoga – anything that gets you moving.
- Go outside: Fresh air and sunlight can help you feel better. Go for a walk, play outside, or just sit and enjoy the outdoors.
- Get good sleep: Try to go to bed and wake up at the same time every day. Getting enough sleep can help your mood.
- Check your vitamins: Sometimes feeling sad can be linked to not having enough vitamin D. Check with your doctor about taking vitamins.

If you still feel depressed, talk to a medical provider or someone you trust.

If you are experiencing a mental health emergency, call or text the 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline for support from a trained crisis counselor, 24/7.

Know where to go for care

A guide to your options

When you feel unwell, it can be confusing to know where to go for care. If possible, you should start with your primary care provider (PCP). It is also important to know your other options if your PCP is not available.

Use this guide to help find the right care as quickly as possible.

Situation	Care option
Have a non-emergency health issue or need preventive care?	Primary care provider (PCP) See your doctor. They know your health history and can refer you to a specialist, if needed.
Have a non-emergency health issue and your PCP isn't available?	Convenience care clinic Go to a convenience care clinic, available in larger retail stores, drugstores and grocery stores. Or try a 24/7 Virtual Visit at uhcdoctorchat.com .
Need non-emergency care quickly?	Urgent care Try urgent care. There's no need to make an appointment, and the wait is generally much shorter than the emergency room.
Have a mental health emergency?	Mental health crisis center , or call 988 .
Have a medical emergency?	Emergency room , or call 911 .

Know your body

What is the thyroid, and what does it do?

The thyroid is a small gland in the front of your neck. It makes hormones that help your body use energy, grow, and stay healthy. These hormones help with things like:

- Heartbeat
- Digestion
- Brain and bone growth
- Muscle movement
- Body temperature
- Periods (for girls)

Testing and treatment

Talk to your doctor if you have a concern. They can check your thyroid with a blood test. If something's wrong, they might do more tests or give you medicine to help your thyroid work better.

Thyroid problems

Sometimes the thyroid doesn't work right. Here are some common problems:

- Hypothyroidism – thyroid is too slow and doesn't make enough hormones
- Hyperthyroidism – thyroid is too fast and makes too many hormones
- Goiter – thyroid gets bigger than normal
- Thyroid cancer – harmful cells grow in the thyroid

Social determinants of health

Good health involves more than just medical exams and treatments. Everyday essentials like access to healthy food, safe housing, transportation and financial security are crucial. If any are missing, it can have a major impact on your health, well-being and quality of life.

HIV testing

Are you free of HIV?

Get tested during pregnancy to be sure

Any member can have a human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) test at any time. If you are pregnant and have HIV, the virus can be passed to your baby. The good news is that treatment during pregnancy and treating the baby after birth can greatly reduce the chance of this happening.

Talk to your primary care provider, maternity care provider or contact your local department of public health for testing. Testing is available with Affirm. To learn more, call 602-258-5777 or visit affirmaz.org. If your test is positive, you can get specialty treatment and medical counseling.
